The examination will be under the direction of the local postal examining board, Miss Thomas, Arthur McClasky and Seber Burnett.

A number of applications for positions in this county have been made and the man in charge of the district, Leon D. AT WADSWORTH LAST JULY Nish, of Elgin, has been in Waukegan getting ready for the examination.

In the entire district (comprising Lake, DuPage, Will, Kane and Mc Henry counties), there have been about 400 applications for positions, Lake county contributing a fair share toward this number although the applications did not come in as fast as expected in this county as well as in the others. The applications are for positions as enumerators. The census bureau hes given out rigid instructions, however, that the enumerators be named for their shooting with attempt to kill his former ability and that politics be obliterated. For this reason civil service examinations are to be held to determine who of the scores of applicants are capable of taking the census.

The examination will be practically the same for all applicants and will be a practical test in filling out the census tion. Applicants will be forced to be able to take enumeration of agricultural statistics as well as to cover the population of a city district.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Derring, returning from a winter in the woods to his mother's farm home, is overleken by his uncle, accompanied by his eccentric wife, coming to pay, a visit at the farm. Annt Jerusha's questions about Emily Hutton, supposed to be Derring's sweetheart, roven this fact that she is to marry another. Disappointment stimulates Derring's umbition, and under the advice of Seth Kinney, a hermit of the woods, he resolves to fit himself for college. Kinney teaches him Greek and he passes his entrance examinations triumphantly, winning the approval of the professor. Four years in college objilerates the memory at Emily. Derring begins journalistic work in Chicago, where he meets Helen Gordon, an artist. Derring is promoted to art critic on his paper. Helen refuses to marry him and humper both their careers, but they enter into a companionship compact. Helen suffers ill effects from sketching on the lake shore in January. Illness brings her into closer relationship with Richard. Derring is ealled home by the illness of Seth Kinaey. Seth dies, leaving Derring a small fortune. Derring returns to Chicago. Helen starts on a visit to her home in the cast, and is killed in a railroad accident. She leaves a message for Richard, saying: "I shall come back to you'lf I can." But if not—" Derring throws himself into his work to find forgetfulness. He linds peace in ministering to others with no hope of happiness for himself.

It had taken him long to learn the art of resting. But he had at last galaed the power to turn aside at any moment from the rush of life and yield himself, body and mind, to a quiet restfulness.

Ten years should not so change a face were it not that ten years, as men count time, are sometimes a cycle.

Derring was not thinking of the past, however, nor of himself. He was resting, gaining strength for the next work that lay before him.

At last he rose and began to move about the room, making rendy for dinner. Suddenly he stopped, bewildered, putting his hand to his head. What had happened? A change too subtle to be put in words had come over him while he rested. He looked at his face in the mirror, half expecting to see some sign. It was not there. Omaha, Neb., Feb. 2.—Prehably the most unusual feature of the excitement that has been created by L. T. Cooper's visit to this city is the removal of parasites or tape worms by his preparations,

During the early part of Cooper's stay in Omaha individuals who were taking "New Discovery," as it is called, brought either to himself or to physisians throughout the elly immense parasites that had left the system after using the medicine.

Many of these people were frightened, and cases of this sert became so numerous that Cooper finally made the following statement for publica-

He said: "In every city I visit these things are brought to me within a few days after my mediciae is sold in the city. They are what is known as the tape-worm, and grew to an enormous size.

"Fow, indeed, realize how prevelent these creatures are. I think I have been the first to demenstrate what a large factor they are in the peor health of this generation. I believe that fully one-half of the chronic stomach trouble now so universal is caused by these parasites.

"Individuals may have them for years and not be aware of the reason for their continued ill-health, but attribute it to many different diseases, when in reality one of these creatures is robbing them of their vitality.

"These parasites are taken into the system in uncooked food or raw ment. in the form of no egg, which hatches simost immediately. People suffering from them experience a feeling of lassitude and are extremely nervous. The netion of Cooper's 'New Discovery' seems to be fatal to these great worms, and in most cases a few doses of the medicine drives the crentures from the system. I will have hundreds of them brought to me before I leave the city." This growseme prophecy has been amply verified, for not only hundreds hut thousands of Omnha people have bsen relieved of some of these fearful parasites since taking Cooper's preparation, and the entire city has been many others concerning which it is in a position to make definite hypotheses. The time has now arrived when it is attempting to apply its facts and principles to the solution of some of the most important problems of our daily life.

THE PLAYERS REMEMBER THE GAME IN THRIAS OF THE MOVEMENTS THEY MADE

It is a matter of common knowledge that during the last few years thore has been an ever growing attempt to cure diseases, both of the mind and of the body, through the tremendous power of suggestion. Prof. Munsterberg, in this country and others abroad, through experiments and practical applications, have conclusively shown that our knowledge of the laws of mind may be used to relieve human life of some of its greatest ills. Probably no discovery in physical science promises to be of as great and lasting benefit to the world as the discovery of the power of suggestion as a law governing a large part of the life of every individual. The time is soon coming when no reputable physician will dare to practice medicine without some knowledge of the facts of psycho-therapensis.

Itecently, and very largely under the leadership of Prof. William Storm, of the University of Breslau, extensive investigations have been carried on in regard to the psychology of testimony. These investigations have thrown important light upon a vital phase of court procedure and have shown its great weakness in many particulars. Soon this new field of applied psychology will be able to lay down dofinite laws in the conduct of the examination of the witness. The time is not, probnbly, for distant when every court will have some officer. attached to it who is an expert in the psychology of testimeny and who will ho ablo to correct many misunderstandings that are now current in regard to the essential ciements of the witnesses' report and the extent of

In Zurich Dr. Jung has devised a method for discoveriag some of the most important facts in regard to the mental makeup of an ladividual. This procedure he calls the "diagnostical association's method." Ho gives to the subject to be tested, in succession, a list of 100 words, to which the subject is to respond with the first association that comes into his mind after the presentallon of the original word. The character of the assoclations formed and the time which intervenes between the presentation of the stimulus word and the response are important elements in diagnosing the mental condition of the individual and in discovering essential facts in his previous history. This mothod has been used with merked success in the discovery of erime and it promlses to he of great importance in the dingnosis of nervous diseases and in the detection of the criminal.

While the application of psychology to the treatment of disenses, to the discovery of truth and to the detection of the criminal is tromendously important, another field of its application, while less spectacular and while not calculated to excite immediately so great popular, interest, promises to be of more far-reaching consequence in the regulation of our daily life. This lastnamed field is in the psychology of learning and applies to the work of our entire school system, from the kindergarten through the university. The lender in this movement is Prof. Meumann, of the University of Hallu. During the last deenda Meumann and his pupils have been attempting to discover the most direct and cconemical methods of the acquisition of knowledge and a large amount of material has been brought together, many facts have been established and conclusions of practical value chtained. It is in this phase of the work of applied psychology that the University of Illinois is particularly interested. For the last four years experiments have been carried on under the direction of the psychological laboratory at lilipols, in regard to determining some of the most important facts concerning not see the plays as the speciator does from the grandmemory and kindred topics, the thought being that if stand, but recalls them in terms of the movements the department of psychology were to be of maximum which he makes in executing them.

service to the state in which it is situated and to which It ewes its support, it should be able to show how the theoretical work of the laboratory can bo applied to the bettering of human conditions.

The agricultural and the engineering experiment stations at the university have been attempting to give the practical men of the state information in regard to the hest means of provonting wastes and of ohtalaling the greatest efficiency in the various fields of their endeavor. A similar attempt is being made by the department of psychology of the university to show to the schoolmen of the state how they can save time and how they can so regulate the environment of the school as to get the greatest results with the loast possible expenditure of

All knowledge is based fundamentally upon memory and it is quite obvious that if the most economical methods of learning are discovered and applied tromendous wastes in the schoolroom will be saved. It is a striking fact that most students who come to the university do not know how to preperly memorize their material. They lose a very large amount of time that might be saved greatly to their advantage, if they had the simple knowledge of how to go about their work before them. What is true of the university student is undoubtedly true even to a greater degree of the pupils in the public schools. It is clear that if the teachers knew what was the best method by which the pupil could memorize a cortain material and could train that pupil in such methods of memory highly beneficial results would be accomplished.

Working along this line, some years ago the depart ment of psychology at Illinois instituted a series of experiments to dotermine as far as possible the exact facts concerning what is technically know as the ideational types of school children and the relation of these types to the memorizing of different kinds of material. By the ideational type the psychologist understands the sort of mental imagery in which a person thinks-for example, if a child recalls in imagination a bird he may do so by having a mental picture of the bird as a visible object or he may recall the bird in terms of the song that it sings. It is further possible that he may not, in thluking of the bird, see it mentally or recall its song, but that he may merely see the word, bird, written or hear it spoken, or attempt to pronounce it himself. If he actually sees the hird in his mind's eye he is said to have concrete visual imagery. If he hears the song that it sings mentally, he is said to have concrete auditory imagery. If he sees not the bird but the word, he is said to have verbal-visionary imagery, and it instead of seeing the word or hearing it he simply has the mental limagery of pronouncing the word, he is said to have verbal-motor imagery,

It is then possible for the person in his ordinary thinking to employ either concrete imagery, in which he recalls the actual object as presented through some of his senses or to employ verbal imagery, in which latter case he does not recall the object at all, but in which he recalls the printed symbol for that object cither in visual, auditory or meter terms. It is possible also to have not only concrete visual and auditory imagery but to linve concrete moter imagery as well. A person, for example, in mentally recalling a foot race, may think of the runner as he appears ready for the starting elgnal, or he may think of the starting signal, or, finally, he may think of the muscular sensations which come in running the race. In this latter case he would think of the runner in terms of concrete motor imagery.

Probably the football player, in recalling the experiences of the game in which he has taken a part, does crete auditory and motor imagery as well. Later on this concrete form of imagining dies out. They think in terms of words and the netual experience hehind these words becomes dim and obscure. The whole process is to make their learning a thing of buoks and not a thing of vital, pulsating life. This is a great advantage in abstract thinking. It is, however, a distinct hindrance in appreciation of culture and art. If we wish to train our children to think accurately and abstractly we must train them, as the schools evidently are now training them, in the direction of vorbal imagery. If, however, we wish to do. velop artists, poets, men of letters, inventors and those with technical skill in the various professions, we must eee to it that this concrete imagory is not lest; for if. this loss takes place it will mean tremendous waste and disaster for many.

The experiments further showed that those children who thought in visual terms were best able to memorize material with a visual content and that those who thought in auditory or motor terms were best able to learn material with an auditory or metor content. This, of course, means as far as the application of results to school work le concerned that the material which the child learns must be in some way adapted to his ideational type, if the hest results are to be accomplished.

This, perhaps, is not so vital a fact with the average child who has many ways, it may be, in which he can imogine his experience, but there are always in every echoolroom numbers of exceptional children who are, very slow to get on in certain fields and whe, nevertheless are far from being mental defectives. To take a concrete illustration, there are children who have great difficulty in learning to read and yet who are often bright in other school subjects. It is probable that such children have not developed the type of verbal-visual imagory. The printed word falls to earry its proper significance. Such a child, obviously, must be treated differently from the average individual. In the first place, he may he helped in his reading by being inetructed to spoll and pronounce words. The method of showing him words and having him grasp them as visual signs will be a hopeless method of procedure in his case. Further, the child may be aided by a systematic attempt to strengthen his verbal-visual imagery. There is ample ovidence that children can be trained In any type of imagery and it is the business of education to see that those who are defective in an essontial type are trained to overcome this defect.

We cannot think for a moment of demanding the same sort of thing from the child whose eyesight is poor that we demand from the child of normal visual acuity. It is just as foolish to expect the child who is defective In a certain ideational type to do the work of a normal child as it is to expect the child who is defective in his visual sensibility to accomplish the samo results under the same conditions that the child of normal sensibility. accomplishes.

Another important problem which has been undertaken by the psychological laboratory at the university is to discover the most advantageous conditions; hesides those relating to the ideational type, under which cartain kinds of school material may he memorized. At the outset of such an investigation the psychologist is confronted with the difficulty of selecting the sort of material for memorizing which will be sufficiently uniform to be tried on many children and on the same child at verious times. It is quite ovident that if we use the ordinary materials of the schoolroom, such as the child has had in his reading, geography and history room, that this material will not be of the uniformity desired. It was to avoid this difficulty that the psychologist, Ebblughaus, nearly 25 years ago, tried a memory experiment, in which he used for material nousense syllables, that is, certain syllables which could be pronounced and which yet had no significance; syllables, for example, like nec-dez-hux. Here we have a relatively uniform material that has, for the most part, little or no signifi-cance.

Using this kind of material, several thousand school direction which interests them most children in Urbana, Champaign, Bloomington, Danville and In some of the normal schools of the state have been tested to determine certain cenditions under which they learn most advantageously. One of the questions asked in these investigations has been this: Suppose the child is given something to learn and is asked to recall it later on, under what conditions during the interval between learning and recall will his memory be most retentive? The data obtained has been so, extensive that it has not been completely worked over as yet. Some very interesting conclusions, however, have been reached-among these this, that writing serves as a great distraction and that the child can recall material batter when the interval is filled with such a strennous activity as number work, than when it is filled with the writing of some familiar phrase, as "My Country, 'tls of Thee." The grester distracting tendency of writing than of other school occupations shows itself particularly in the lower grades. It has also been found out that when young children are required to learn by keeping perfeetly still they are at a disadvantage. If you wish to have the child learn under the most disadvantageous conditions, require that child to keep perfectly still:

MON-SENSE SYLLABLES

The experiments at the University. of Illinois clearly show that oral composition is the most satisfactory method of developing real power of expression in young children.

If it is finally determined how the interval between learning and recall can be most advantageously filled, then the arrangement of the school program of studies can be worked out on a psychological hasis and not on the more or less haphazard basis which seems to be the present plan.

RACTERS FOR TESTING VISUAL IMAGERY

Among other problems in this field of applied psychology which the department has undertaken or proposes to carry out in the near future may be mentioned the following:

1. What are some of the most advantagoous conditions of learning to spell correctly?

2. In learning, is it bettor to give all of the time to a study of the subject matter to he learned, or is it hetter to dovote a portion of the time in the attempt to recall material that has already been mastored?

3. Is it better, in learning, to attempt to memorize the material by commencing at the beginning and running through to the end consecutively and by repeating this process until the whole has been mastered or is it better to learn a part and then another part, and so on? 4. What method of presentation is more advantageous in learning? By this is meant, specifically, is it hetter to present to the child material to learn orally or visually, and is it better to present the material simultaneously or successively-that is, should the whele thing that he is to learn be given at once or is ho to study one part and then the next and so on?

In considering the first of these problems it may be sald that results at Illinois clearly point to the fact that the method of teaching children to spell by giving the word as a whole and not breaking it up into syllables is not the psychological method and that the old method of syllableation with some of its obvious faults had distinet advantages over some of the extreme methods of to-dny.

Apropes the second problem it is clearly established by experiments at Illinois that there is groat advantage in not spending the entire period of learning on studying the material presented, but that it is of very great advantage to spend part of this time in attempting to recall what has been shown. Train the pupil to look at the page that he is trying to memorize for a period and then to turn his gaze away and in his mind's eye recall the printed matter.

It is generally held by investigators that the best method of memorizing is to learn the material by commencing at the beginning and running through the whole process to the end. The Illinois experiments brought out this fact, that in such consecutive learning there are certain parts that are mastered more quickly than others and that it is advantageous to first go over the whole material consecutively until the more easily acquired material is mastered and then to spend some time in learning these parts that are more difficult and to finally relearn the whole consecutively.

Now, in attempting to answer the fourth question, experiments have been carried on at Illinois which show rather elearly that the most advantageous way to present material to little children is visually and in successien. The reason for this, in part at least, is because successive presentation secures better attention than simultaneous presentation and that the word when seen, especially if it is difficult, can be better comprehended than if it is merely heard.

The foregoing account gives a statement of some et the most typical and important experimental investigatione now in progress in the psychological laboratory at the University of Illineis. As has already been said, the main emphasis is being placed upon the psychology of learning, more specifically on technique and economy in our processes of acquisition. At the same time ample scops is given for the theoretical aspects of the subjoct so that the field in a general way may be covered and that thuse who wish to obtain higher degrees hi subject may find ample opportunity for research in the n our village Monday of this week.

We would be glad to receive and pubish in Kelley's History of Lake County (now on the press and soon to be published) any corroborated reminiscences of early times, of yourself, friends or relatives who have lived in Lake county prior to 1875.

Also data from which we can make a literary sketch regarding their lives, date of birth, arrival in Lake county, marriages, deaths, etc. We are endeavoring to make this a work of historical value, and while we desire to make mention of the people of the present day, it is our intention to perpetuate the memory of those early settlers who laid the foundation of and helped build our county. This offer does not call for the expenditure of any money on your part and remains open up to and including February 15, 1910, and if when this work is published ao mention is made of yourself, parents or friends through modesty on your part, it is not our fault.

We need your assistance to make this full and authentic history of Lake Co. Address all communications to

HE IS NOW ONE OF THE RICHEST FARMERS IN SASKATCHEWAN. CENTRAL CANADA.

Arriving in Canada in 1891, just eighteen years ago, E. A. Guillomin could speak but his native language. He is a Frenchman. He had but a little over two dollars in his pocket. thus being short over seven dollars of the ten dollars required to secure entry for a homestead of one hundred and sixty acres. He eventually borrowed the money and near Forget, Saskatchewan, he started life in Canada on the homestead in which to-day ho is the fortunate possessor of fifty quarter sections of land, or 8,000 acres.

Now Mr. Guillomin did not acquire all these acres as a result altogether of his farming operations, which were extensive. He looked with satisfac-tion upon what he was deing on his limited aroa, he was saving, careful, and had foresight. Surrounding land could be had for about $3.00 per acrs, and he continued buying as his say. ings would permit, until now ha has fifty quarter, sections, some of which ho can sell at $26.00 per acro.

"Woll, don't let that happen in school again," said the teacher, sternly.—Sunday Magazine of the Cleveland Leader.

A young Calif. wife talks about coffes: "It was hard to drop Mocha and Java and give Postum a trial, but my nerves were so shattered that I was a norvous wreck and of course that means all kinds of ails.

"At first I thought bleycle riding caused it and I gave it up, but my condition remained unchanged. I did not want to acknowledge coffee caused tho trouble for I was very fond of it. At that time a friend came to live with us, and I noticed that after he had been with us a week he would not drink his ceffce any more. I asked him the reason. Ho replied, I have not had a headache since I left off drinking cofneuritis you are to be congratulated fee, semo months ago, till last week, when I began again, here at your table. The speaker, a physician, laughed I den't see how anyone can like coffee, anyway, after drinking Postumi'

'I said nothing, but at once ordered a package of Postum. That was five menths ago, and we have drank no each time was that my husband could not sleep, but lay awake and tessed and talked half the night. We were convinced that coffee caused his suffering, so he returned to Postum, convinced that coffee was an enemy, instead of a friend, and he is troubled

Why "Petter's Field" for Beggare It is not because the beggar falls to make money that he finally lands in the potter's field. "Any good, indus-trious beggar," says Mr. Forbes, "can and does make a great deal more money than the average workingman." But the trend of the beggar is downward, and in the end he is pretty sura SCRATCHED SO SHE COULD to become a hopeless wrock and a derelict.

Knew the Calendar. They were little girls, so small that the teacher was telling them about divisions of time, and receiving all sorts of answers to her simple questions. The little girl who lived in a boarding house was a year older than any of the ethers.

"We have learned that years are divided lato menths, months into weeks, and weeks into days," said the teacher. "Now can any one tell me how the days are divided?" The little girl who lived in a boarding house raised her hand, and was asked to speak.
